About Me

Computational biologist with a dual foundation in clinical laboratory diagnostics and medical biotechnology (MSc, Tehran University of Medical Sciences). My research focuses on training transformer architectures for molecular representation to accelerate small molecule discovery. I adapt these sequence modeling pipelines toward antibody design in hematologic malignancies, developing modular Python workflows that link predictive deep learning models to wet lab validation.

Education

- Sep 2023 – Jul 2026: M.Sc. Medical Biotechnology: Tehran University of Medical Sciences (GPA: 19.93/20.00)
- Sep 2018 – Jul 2021: B.Sc. Medical and Clinical Laboratory Science and Technology: Islamic Azad University (GPA: 18.92/20.00)
- Sep 2010 – Jun 2017: Middle and High School Diploma: Natural Sciences, National Organization for Development of Exceptional Talents

Publications

Peer-reviewed Journal Articles
